For individuals or families living in tents, as I've seen in Clay, are they counted as sheltered or unsheltered?

I just think that if the sheltered went down much less than the unsheltered, then it's required to think about why unsheltered decreased so drastically. Is it because unsheltered people are not willing to self-identify now?

08:48:07 From Beth Mixson to Everyone:

Families afraid of losing children.

08:48:13 From Laura to Everyone:

And that very interaction happened— a couple who refused to say they are homeless. I remember that from that day!

08:48:38 From EdinSabanovic to Everyone:

we've also heard during the count that a lot of folks are staying in abandoned buildings to avoid law enforcement and we won't go into an abandoned building during the count.

08:49:18 From DanielleDyess to Everyone:

We saw alot of people hiding due to the new laws

08:49:39 From Beth Mixson to Everyone:

We have seen an uptick of families living in storage units.

08:51:34 From nancy.eisele to Everyone:

Would it work to do a point in time on our own in warmer weather. With the BNL so long, it just don't match the PIT count.

08:51:47 From Joyce Case to Everyone:

Did you encounter any undocumented individuals?

I think if we had ore time we could have found alot more people, even in the areas we were given it is still spread out

08:54:09 From Joyce Case to Everyone:

Isn't the Point in Time survey dates prescribed by the funder?

08:55:53 From Beth Mixson to Everyone:

Gasprillia

09:06:23 From EdinSabanovic to Everyone:
